

TELLS WHY HELL IS NOT FICTION

Most People Who Say They Do Not Believe Such a Place Exists Are Insincere, Says Evangelist.

"Most people who say they do not believe in hell are insincere," declared Dr. A. M. Bailey in his sermon at the evangelistic meeting at the First Baptist church Tuesday evening. Dr. Bailey preached a strong sermon on the theme of the story of Dives and Abraham.

"There are two reasons why I believe in hell," said Dr. Bailey. "One is because Jesus said that there was a hell, and the other is because the Bible declares that such a place exists. When it comes time to face death and the judgment the negative philosophy regarding religion does not help a man much."

"The family of Dives is an interesting one in many respects. First, it was a large one. I have a great pity for the homes into which God has never sent a baby, but I have a greater pity for the homes where the baby which God has sent is not wanted."

"In the second place, the family was a rich one. Jesus never spoke of the rich except in the terms of great love and pity. The smallest capitalist in the city may be meaner than the multi-millionaire."

"The third interesting fact was that one member of the family was already in hell. The Bible said Dives was in hell, and that ought to be sufficient evidence for any one who professes to believe in the Bible as an inspired book. Furthermore, all of the brothers of Dives were on the way to hell where Dives was."

"If the church believed more sincerely that men are lost unless they repent, there would be a greater anxiety on the part of Christians for those out of Christ."

Special music, including two solos by Mrs. Rode, was presented at the services last evening, and more will be arranged for every meeting during the rest of the week.

MRS. SUHL, PENNILESS, WORKS AS DOMESTIC

Woman Acquitted of Murder Now Lives in Fear of Imaginary Scorn.

Worn out from the trying ordeal of imprisonment and of trial; nerve-racked until she fears that she is an outcast and that the finger of scorn is being pointed at her, Mrs. Augusta Suhl is now trying to make a living for herself. She is practically without companionship and, it is said by those who are in a position to know, she has none of her property left.

About a week ago she applied to the state free employment bureau for employment and thus she secured a place as domestic at the county tuberculosis hospital. So it is that the county prosecuted her and now aids her.

That Mrs. Suhl avoids recognition is shown by her furtiveness and by words dropped in the course of conversations with those who occasionally come in contact with her.

It is said that an employee of the hospital assured her soon after she arrived that he knew who she was and that he would not be her for $10,000. When she discovered that another person at the hospital knew her she declared to that person that if she was being recognized there was no use for her to try to remain any longer.

When the penny lunch room at the Perley school opened Tuesday noon, 185 pupils of the school took advantage of the opportunity to secure their dinner at such a low price. The menu consisted of vegetable soup and large cheese sandwiches.

More than a third of the pupils of the school attended the opening of the lunch room, Frank E. Wolf, the principal of the school, is in charge of the lunch room and was much elated over the initial success of the plan which was approved by the Perley Civic club at a recent meeting.

Mrs. A. E. Wise and Mrs. J. Jeffries served the luncheon, which was prepared by the ladies in the vicinity of the school. Arrangements have been made to use a separate room in the basement for the serving of the luncheon. The food will be prepared each day by the women living in the neighborhood. The new lunch room enables the children to secure a warm dinner at a slight cost. The menu, although not large, will be changed daily by those conducting the lunch.

HOLD CONFERENCE ON LARGER ARMY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—To achieve a proper state of military preparedness without creating a deficit was the main question considered by the military conference held Tuesday night at Sec'y of War Garrison's home.

This was the announcement made by Sen. Tillman when he left the conference at 11 o'clock with Sec'y of the Navy Daniels. The conference was between the secretary of war, the secretary of the navy and the chairman of the military and naval affairs committees of the two houses.

Sen. Tillman said no figures were presented to indicate how much could be expended upon military extension without creating a deficiency in the treasury. He said no figures were at present available.

Beyond making it plain that the administration would oppose any military and naval expenditures which would create a liability beyond the ability of the government to meet out of the existing resources of revenue, Sen. Tillman was not inclined to be communicative about the conference.

The only additional statement he could be induced to make was: "The president's message pretty clearly indicates the needs of the situation and those needs, as the president sees them will be met."

Sen. Chamberlain, chairman of the senate military affairs committee, said he informed Sec'y Garrison that he intended to call up at an early date in the senate the measures he has introduced to provide for increased military preparedness and that Sec'y

Garrison said he hoped he would do this.

Sen. Chamberlain has two bills pending.

One provides for an increase of 25,000 in the enlisted strength of the army; for 1,000 additional officers and for an increase of 8,000 men in the coast artillery.

The other bill provides for the creation of a reserve by shortening the term of enlistment of men willing to enter the reserve army. Both are along the lines of recommendations made by Sec'y Garrison in his annual report.

The insistent demand of Europe for wheat and the determination of farmers and elevator men not to sell until they get their price are wholly responsible for the advance.
